THE MORMON QUESTION.

A Cleveland Paper Discourses on the Evil, and Suggests a Remedy.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14.—A leading paper here will say to-morrow: "Mormon missionaries are constantly employed in the south, misleading the poor and ignorant. Children are brought here from abroad to be educated in the infamous practices of the saints and elders. The church, which was founded in deceit and superstition, is daily gaining enormous power and influence. The world cries out against such progress, and in the name of humanity, home and common decency demand a halt in the rapid strides of lechery and law-breaking. The firesides of America are the bulwarks of the nation's liberty, and interceding agents for its redemption and everlasting preservation. Let them be guarded with jealous care; let them remain uncontaminated by horrible influences now being spread by sensual hypocrites and soulless charlatans. As yet congress has taken but little interest in the matter, for some reason best known to the members thereof, and as a consequence, it remains for the people at large to throttle the evil in the best manner possible, and rid the country of a curse which the representatives in congress have failed to recognize.

MORMONS PREPARING TO INFLUENCE CONGRESS.

"An immense lobby of Mormon elders has signified its intention to go to Washington this winter, for the purpose of defeating bills introduced for regulating polygamy. A great deal of money will be spent and if a popular uprising against the obnoxious teachings and practices of Mormons is not made congress will no doubt refuse to recognize the evil and nothing will be done to eradicate it. In view of this the national league for the suppression of polygamy urgently request that petitions be circulated in every city, town and school district in the United States, asking congress to submit to the legislatures of the various states an amendment to the constitution prohibiting polygamy. This would be an important step and if accomplished will prevent the institution being recognized in any of the present states or in the territories that may become states hereafter. It is hoped the public will take an interest in the matter and see that congress is deluged with petitions during the coming session. If it is a general demand from all parts of the country for the abolition of polygamy congress will be compelled to heed the demand, and the only way to make such a demand is by means of extensively signed petitions."

DARING TRAIN ROBBERY.

Mexican Bandits Capture $8000 on the National Railway.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY ACROSS THE MEXICAN BORDER.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 14.—A bold train robbery was perpetrated at 7 o'clock last night on the Mexican National railroad, twenty miles south of here, across the Mexican line. As the train from Saltillo, Mex., bound for this place, rounded a curve on a lonely spot not far from La Jarita, a small station, the engineer discovered that a rail had been removed from the track. He applied the brakes and reversed the engine as soon as possible, but too late to save the train, which was thrown from the track. The engine and the first two cars were wrecked and the others somewhat damaged. The fireman was killed, falling beneath the engine. The engineer was considerably bruised. Simultaneously as the train left the track about forty masked men issued from the adjoining woods and made an attack. They compelled the conductor to give up the money in the express car, $8000 in silver, and were about to relieve the passengers of their valuables when it became known that one of the passengers had escaped and gone to La Jarita for assistance. The robbers thereupon took fright, and, returning to their horses, retreated into the woods. It is thought they have crossed the Rio Grande and are now upon American soil. Scouting parties are out in all directions.

The Mexican custom officer had boarded the train at Dajarita, the last station passed, and immediately the train was wrecked, started back on foot and brought his guards to the rescue. The telegraph wire had been cut, and the train dispatcher had reported suspicions of foul play. Superintendent Lester ordered a special train sent out, with 100 Mexican soldiers. An investigation showed that the robbers' mules had been kept in a thicket the night before, when $15,000 in silver was shipped from Monterey and Saltillo to Laredo, but fortunately the train was ten hours late, passing the spot in day time, and thus being saved. None of the passengers were robbed. The marauders were delayed a long time with the safe and bullion. Dr. V. O. King and wife of San Antonio and R. S. Vivian of Kansas City were among the passengers. They say the robbers were all Mexicans, except the leader, who is an American. Passengers furnished a detailed description of the leader to the authorities who think he is a well known character. It is believed he cannot escape capture. Engineer Madden saved the lives of the passengers by prompt application of the air brakes.

RAILROAD NOTES.

THE ADVANTAGES OF KICKING HORSE PASS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Mr. Davis, who has an engineering party at Kicking Horse, says the pass is certainly practicable, and, in his opinion, the most available route. Of forty-four miles of the pass, eight will cost say $120,000 per mile. The remaining thirty six can be built at a cost of from $35,000 to $40,000 per mile. Fifteen miles of track will hang on the side of a mountain, 600 feet above the river bottom. In laying track the minimum grade will be 116 feet to the mile, for fifteen miles. Some two or three miles in the canyon will reach this grade, and the rest is lighter. Rich gold deposits have been found on Shilamachus creek, the point where the line of survey crossed the Columbia river, eight miles north of Kicking Horse. There are large silver deposits on Baker creek, east of the mountain range. There are at present five engineering parties in the pass. It is authoritatively stated that Mr. Ross, manager of the North American Contract Company, which is building the road, claims that the line can be laid through Kicking Horse pass at a cost of $225,000 per mile. This, Mr. Davis says, can only be an estimate, as little surveying has been done there, for reasons. It is further alleged, that Mr. Ross is opposed to Kicking Horse, and will urge the selection of some other pass if one can be found, at a cost which will be anywhere near that of Kicking Horse.

AFTER THE SCALPERS.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The general passenger and ticket agents in the transcontinental association have issued a circular in accordance with the Topeka company, directing connecting lines to withdraw the sale of all tickets via San Francisco to points in Oregon, Washington territory and British Columbia, and all tickets to San Francisco via St. Paul, Duluth or Portland. The general passenger agents of the roads west from this city are in receipt of information that Commissioner Pierson has ordered the New York trunk lines to discontinue selling through tickets from the east to points west of Chicago and St. Louis. This is to overcome the alleged abuses growing out of ticket scalping. The new regulation of the companies compels travelers to repurchase tickets after reaching the two cities named, and the act of the commissioner has occasioned universal wrath among the officials of western roads.

MEETING OF THE TRANSCONTINENTAL ASSOCIATION.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The Transcontinental Railroad Association, passenger department, met here to-day and adopted rates from Missouri river points to San Francisco, as follows: First class, $95; second, $75; emigrant, $45; theatrical, $76. A proposition was presented to make the rate from Chicago to San Francisco $103 50; St. Louis to San Francisco, $100, and from Chicago or St. Louis to Portland, Or., $107 50. No decision had been reached up to the hour of adjournment. The proposition will be further discussed to-morrow.

TRANSFERRED TO A UNITED STATES COURT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The suit against Frederick Billings, Henry Villard, the Northern Pacific Railroad Company and others, to restrain the company from issuing $20,000,000 in bonds, and executing a further mortgage or lien on its property, begun in the supreme court, has been transferred to the United States circuit court. A temporary injunction had been obtained restraining the execution of these acts, and a motion to continue will be made in the United States courts.

A MORE HOPEFUL OUTLOOK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The Post says: "So far as regards the general railroad and business situation there is a steady improvement. This was shown by an increase of 11 per cent. in the October earnings of fifty nine reporting roads over their earnings in October, 1882 and an increase of 10 per cent. in mileage and improvement during October has, as far as can be estimated, continued ever since.

GOULD'S TOUR OF INSPECTION.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14.—Jay Gould arrived from the west at 2:20 P. M., accompanied by J. L. Hopkins, R. S. Hayes, H. M. Hoxie, and W. L. Lincoln, chief engineer of the Wabash. He leaves this afternoon for Decatur and Chicago.

FIRES.

BIG BLAZE AT NORFOLK.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 14.—Fire broke out in the freight warehouse of the Norfolk and Western railroad depot to-day, and rapidly extended to another freight house and consumed 3000 bales cotton, fifty carloads of lumber, twelve cars and a quantity of miscellaneous freight. The wharves of the company were badly damaged. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

NORFOLK, Nov. 14.—The 4000 bales of cotton burned at the Norfolk and Western depot were consigned to the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Company, and would have been shipped to Boston to-morrow. The steamer Gaston, from Baltimore, had just unloaded a large quantity of freight for the Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia air line, all of which was consumed. A large lot of Peruvian guano was stored in the warehouse for shipment by the same line, and that, with a large quantity of walnut lumber, and all other freight in both warehouses and on the wharves was destroyed. Hundreds of bales of cotton and bales of miscellaneous freight floated down the river and were carried out with the tide. The water front was lined with tug boats, helping to subdue the flames, which at one time threatened to destroy everything in that part of the city. Two frame buildings, half a mile off in the suburbs, ignited and burned. Several men were painfully but not dangerously injured. The cause of the fire is unknown. It is stated the loss will not exceed $250,000; fully insured.

Dr. Stocker Driven from a London Hall—What an Englishman Says of the American Workingman's Lot.

ENGLAND.

PROSPERITY OF THE AMERICAN WORKINGMAN.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Henry Bernhardt Samuelson, M. P. for Frome, delivered in the Frome town hall to-night the first of a series of lectures upon the United States and the American people. Samuelson is a liberal and a land reformer. He says the woolen industries of his borough have felt seriously competition from the United States, and the principal object of his visit to America was to investigate the workings of the tariff laws, especially in their effect upon the condition of the working classes. In his lecture he described the prosperity of American workingmen as marvelous, as compared to that of their fellows in any other part of the world, and said that the evidence of this prosperity was forced upon the attention of a traveler everywhere, especially by the improved methods of passenger travel upon American railroads, which, being almost entirely supported by the middle classes, exhibits the condition of the patrons in the unparalleled comforts and conveniences afforded.

BANQUET BY THE TRINITY HOUSE CORPORATION.

LONDON, Nov 14.—At a banquet given this evening by the Trinity House corporation, the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, president of the board of trade, urged measures to prevent the great annual loss of life and property in the British merchant marine service. He heartily welcomed De Lesseps. Sir Charles Tupper, high commissioner for Canada, paid a high tribute to the Marquis of Lorne for the manner in which he performed the duties of governor general of Canada. De Lesseps emphasized the conciliatory disposition with which he came to England. He said there ought to be no difficulty of arriving at a fair settlement of the Suez Canal question.

THE TRIAL OF O'DONNELL.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Preparations for O'Donnell's defense are well advanced. Roger A. Pryor has had a long and satisfactory interview with the prisoner, the first since his arrival. McAlinney, of O'Donnell's counsel, has brought from Ireland a mass of evidence, and he feels confident the verdict will not be for wilful murder. Witnesses from the Cape of Good Hope are expected to arrive in England Saturday. William J. Hoppin, secretary of the American legation, in the absence of Minister Lowell, has investigated O'Donnell's case, and formally ascertained the fact of his American citizenship.

The prison rules heretofore prevented Pryor seeing O'Donnell, except with permission of the home department. The solicitor for O'Donnell wrote to the home secretary, asking permission for Pryor to visit his client. The secretary replied that Pryor must make personal application, stating the grounds of the request. Pryor made the required application, upon the sole grounds that he being one of the counsel, it was deemed expedient for the defense that he should see him. The home department thereupon granted the request. Pryor was afforded every facility by the officials of Newgate for the interview, which lasted two and a half hours.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—It is understood the opening of the O'Donnell trial is fixed for the 23d inst.

DR. STOCKER DRIVEN FROM THE HALL.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Dr. Stocker, chaplain of the German court, lectured upon socialism to-day, at Memorial hall instead of the Mansion house. A large and unruly crowd was present, and frequently cheered, hissed and groaned at the lecturer, and interrupted him with insulting cries and epithets. Finally the disturbance became so great that Dr Stocker indignantly left the hall, and the meeting ended in confusion.

TO RESTRICT CATTLE IMPORTATION.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—It is stated that Henry Chaplin, a member of parliament for Lincolnshire, proposes to continue his efforts to induce the government to restrict the importation of cattle from the United States, which is steadily increasing.

HIS ULTIMATUM.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Marquis Tseng is prepared to present his ultimatum to the French government, and demand his passports if the French troops at Tonquin make an attack on Bacninh and Sontay.

THE ENGLISH TURF.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Shrewsbury cup was won by Donald Caviel; Roye, second; Vista third. There were eight starters.

AN ALPS TUNNEL COMPLETED.

HEALY BLACKBALLED.

DUBLIN, Nov. 14.—L. G. Healy, a member of parliament for Monaghan, seeking admission to the Irish bar, has been blackballed by the law students' debating society of this city.

FRANCE.

FRANCE DEMANDS INDEMNITY FROM HAYTI.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Premier Ferry has written a letter stating that the French charge d'affaires at Port-au-Prince has been instructed to insist upon the payment of indemnity by the Haytian government to the Frenchmen who suffered loss during the revolt, and to take steps to ascertain the extent to which property had been damaged. The French cruiser Minerva will visit Port-au-Prince and Cape Haytl, and the French government will doubtless protect the Frenchmen in Hayti.

THE FRANCO-CHINESE DIFFICULTY.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—It is understood that Marquis Tseng returned here because it was a more convenient place in which to carry on negotiations. La Liberte says negotiations are likely to be resumed upon a basis which will allow China to retain Bacninh.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Marquis Tseng attended the weekly reception of the minister of foreign affairs.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—There is reason to believe that Marquis Tseng is most desirous of averting war with France, but is not prepared to sacrifice the honor and interest of China to that end.

FRANCE REFUSES TO COMPROMISE.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—A dispatch from Tamatave says the French have declined proposals brought by the Malagasy officials for a compromise of the pending difficulties.

GERMANY.

THE CROWN PRINCE'S VISIT.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—A German squadron has arrived at Genoa to escort the German crown prince to Spain. The Berlin correspondent of the Cologne Gazette, referring to hostile articles of the French press in regard to the German crown prince's visit to Spain, especially alludes to an article in the Paris National, which says plainly it is intended to induce Spanish republicans to commit an act of revolt, as an answer to Spain's reception of the German crown prince. The correspondent adds that money has been sent to Barcelona from France for this object.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Alfonso's Uhlan regiment will not accompany the crown prince to Spain.

GERMANY HAS THE FRIENDSHIP OF RUSSIA.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The National Zeitung says: De Giers has expressed warm friendship for Germany, and declared that he stopped at Berlin by the wish of the czar, that he might convey to the emperor and to Bismarck expressions of friendly feeling of Russia toward Germany.

GONE TO FRIEDRICHSRUHE.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The Russian minister of foreign affairs has gone to Friedrichsruhe to visit Bismarck. The Journal de St. Petersburg says: His (De Giers's) visit to Germany is due to the friendly invitation of Bismarck, and will doubtless confirm the excellent relations between Russia and Germany.

TURKEY.

BELGRADE, Nov. 14.—The royalist troops are everywhere victorious against the insurgents. General Nicolic has subjected all the places declared in a state of siege to martial law.

MEXICO.

MEXICO'S DIFFICULTY WITH HER BONDHOLDERS.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 14.—Interviews with high officials develop the following facts regarding the English debt: Mexico acknowledges an indebtedness, principal and interest, of £16,000,000. Last April a private agent of Mexico, without full authority, made an agreement with the bondholders, by which Mexico was to replace outstanding bonds with a new issue of £20,000,000 at 3 per cent. interest. The additional £4,000,000 was for the purpose of paying the first year's interest and reimbursing the expenses of bondholders' committee. Subsequently congress authorized the president to settle the debt on a given basis. When the text of the agreement arrived from London, the president refused to agree to the additional £4,000,000. Negotiations for a new agreement were then begun, but failed. Two weeks ago the president instructed Carlos Rivas, Mexican agent in London to offer £18,000,000 in bonds instead of £20,000,000. This offer was refused. Rivas was instructed last week to suspend negotiations. The government is anxious to settle, but considers the demand of the bondholders exorbitant.

CANADA.

A FORCED MARRIAGE ANNULLED.

TORONTO, Nov. 14.—The young daughter of a Catholic banker in Toronto was some months since seduced by a medical student. He objected to making reparation by marriage, as his father had left him $60,000 on condition that he should not have a Catholic for a wife. A union was forced upon him at the point of the pistol, and the vice chancellor yesterday annulled it because of compulsion.

Nervous debility, the curse of the American people, immediately yields to the action of Brown's Iron Bitters.

SILVER COINAGE.

Both Parties Will Fight Shy of the Question at the Coming Session.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Commercial Bulletin's Washington special: In reference to the outcome of the silver controversy in congress this winter, a prominent officer of the treasury department says there is strong reason why, apart from other considerations, nothing will be done regarding the coinage of silver dollars. The next presidential contest bids fair to be very close, and the managers of the two great parties are already discussing the doubtful electoral votes, and among the doubtful are those of the silver states—Nevada and Colorado. If republicans in congress should as a party, take positive action in favor of stopping silver coinage, both Nevada and Colorado would probably become democratic next year. The fear of that result will doubtless restrain republicans from making silver coinage a party question. Their platforms this year have been silent on that subject, and it is safe to predict that the national republican platform next year will evade the issue. The democrats in congress this winter will be influenced by similar motives. The opinion thus expressed has much force. If republicans determine to bring the silver question before congress they would necessarily have to originate the measure in the committee of which they have political control. It is entirely probable the same senators, with the exceptions of Ferry, will be members of the finance committee this winter. It is understood that Mahone is desirous of succeeding Ferry. It is doubtful whether a majority of the new committee will favor the suspension of silver dollar coinage. Of the republican members Jones and Allison will oppose such action. The former is a silver extremist, while Allison is the real father of the existing silver law. He might consent to a slight modification of the law, but would strenuously oppose its repeal. Nobody here seriously thinks the house will originate any silver legislation during the coming session.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

De Lesseps Anxious to Sell the Scheme to the United States Government.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Journal of Commerce: It is not improbable that some proposals for the acquisition of a majority of Panama canal shares by the United States may be spent on congress at the coming session. The nominal object of the scheme is to secure for our government control of the Panama canal. There is no telling what understanding may exist between the authors of this project and the French syndicate who hold the shares of stock necessary for this purpose. Probably the Frenchmen may have been sounded, and found willing to sell at a price which a lobby could advance in negotiation with our government, and so make their profit. There is no better basis for the rumor than certain misgivings expressed in an address lately delivered by De Lesseps at Paris. He there made a strong plea in behalf of the right of private property owners in canals of an international character, like those of Suez and Panama. The whole tone of his remarks betrayed anxiety lest the interests of private shareholders in the Suez and Panama canals might be sacrificed in a stress of war. In view of the risks which private shareholders in such canals always run of being at the mercy of great maritime nations, it would not be strange if De Lesseps and his friends were thinking about selling some of their Panama stock to the United States. If such a design, we can assure them, they will not be met half way by the American people. The greatness and integrity of the country are not dependent on the control of the Panama canal. The Pacific railroads now built or awaiting completion give us all needed communication between the eastern and western shores of the nation.

THE STORM.

ON THE GREAT LAKES.

SAUGATUCK, Nov. 14.—All the men on the Protection are safe, except two. They were lost. A schooner was sunk off Racine early Sunday morning. The Protection was disabled while taking off the crew of the Arab, by a rope catching in her wheel. Of nineteen men on the two vessels seventeen were saved. The captain went down with the Arab.

NOT YET DUE.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 14.—The steamer Francis Smith left Port Arthur Friday, but as she was to lay over at Michipicoten for a day or two, she is not due here for some days. There are no fears for her safety.

IN CANADA.

MONTREAL, Nov. 14.—The snow storm lasted all night and has not yet ceased, but it is snowing hard to-day.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—From four to six inches of snow fell in the Ottawa valley to-day.

QUEBEC, Nov. 14.—The weather is very cold. Sleighs are out on the streets, and the port is almost deserted by shipping.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Folger Instructs the San Francisco Collector.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Secretary Folger has written to the collector at San Francisco that if there is any reason to suspect fraud or imposition in the landing of Chinese, he must make a rigid investigation, and refuse permission to passengers to land until satisfactory evidence is produced, and parties feeling aggrieved because of such refusal, can have the correctness of the action of the customs officers decided in court by a writ of habeas corpus.

The Proteus Court of Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Lieutenant Garlington resumed his testimony in the Proteus court of inquiry to-day. He never saw the instructions given Captain Wildes of the Yantic, until the return to St. John. His own instructions ordered him not to stop at Littleton island, on the way up, and he obeyed them. He went south in the boats, hoping to meet the Yantic, and find some way of returning to help Greeley.

Will Issue Another Call.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Secretary Folger will soon issue another call for three per cents.

A FARMER SPEAKS.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

I have just been reading your lecture to the farmers upon their shortcomings in regard to market supplies, and I feel cross because of the injustice of your charges, and I deny emphatically that the producer is to blame. The fault is entirely with the city, and but for her short-sighted policy and absolute antagonism to the farmers, no city on the coast would be better supplied with home products than ours, and thousands of dollars worth of the best material within easy access would not be left to decay where it grows (as is always the case), because of no assurance of a market at any price.

The city has failed to designate and prepare suitable places for the sale of such produce and has gone so far as to levy a tax upon the farmer for the privilege of bringing it in, and even now with a largely increased population, the difficulty of the farmer is largely increased, and the probability of finding a market diminished, because of the trade from abroad, made necessary by want of system at home. There being no place of exhibit, the wants of the trade cannot be estimated by the producer, nor can the home supply be estimated by the dealer, and consequently there are no market values each being left to make the best terms he can and being scattered far and wide, there can be no concert of action between them, and they are afraid of paying too much and being undersold, and buying too much for fear of loss, thus groping in the dark. It is natural they should look abroad for their supplies and deal in settled values. Hence our market is loaded with foreign supplies, much of which is stale before being shipped, and a gain to the shipper at any price, and is here sold for home production to our great injury, both in price and reputation, so that really we have no inducement to make an effort to meet the demand. Why, sir, there is no place in the city where we can hitch our horses without liability to a fine, a runaway or a smashup, and we may drive about the city all day, only to hear the same response, "Don't want any." The fact is, we are ruled out, to the great injury of ourselves and the good citizens of Portland, for now we don't get a living price for what we sell. The consumer pays too much for what he buys, and the dealers make but indifferent profits, because of the uncertainties by which they are surrounded. For this state of things the city is wholly responsible. Let her give us the facilities furnished by other cities, so that we can meet dealers and consumers on equal ground, and then the evils will disappear. Until then we shall only go from bad to worse. I hope you will see the truth of these remarks and change your attack. Give the city no rest until justice is done by offering us some inducements to compete for a small portion of her foreign trade. I would like to help you, but am only a poor old

FARMER.

The Decreased Demand for Wheat.

Walla Walla Statesman.

The Statesman has often of late struck the note of warning to our wheat farmers to devote their attention to something besides wheat. At present all other farming industries are neglected for the wheat interests. We have pointed out, how year by year, the amount of wheat received by Great Britain from different parts of the world, especially India, is increasing, and now we find that another enemy to American wheat heaves in sight along the line of the Canadian Pacific railroad, where that immense wheat growing country existing between the chain of lakes and the Rocky mountains, known as the Manitoba and Fort Geary country is rapidly being opened out as a principal competitor in the wheat markets of the world. This transcontinental road, backed by one of the richest syndicates the world ever saw, will be completed in a few years, notwithstanding the present engineering difficulties. The road opens up perhaps the finest wheat country ever yet plowed—of an extent capable of growing almost any amount of cereals, which cereals will be carried to the seaboard at prices calculated to allow large profits to the farmers. Traffic gains will not be considered so much as the building up of the country, so that the land granted to the promoters of the road may become of sufficient value to repay them for their outlay. Thus it will be seen that England's colonies and its principal dependency will unite in supplying the mother country with wheat, and the question naturally arises: Why should they not be protected in this industry against the large transportations from the United States? That this will probably be done may be judged from the fact that within the last day or so at "a trade conference held in London, England, a moderate import duty upon foreign wheat, in order to encourage the trade in the British colonies was advocated." Will the farmers of eastern Washington and Oregon take warning in time and turn their attention to other branches of agriculture, such as stock raising, dairying and fruit and hop culture, or permit themselves to be ruined by a decreased demand for wheats. The large wheat holdings must be broken up and divided into smaller farms, devoted to the growth of something besides wheat, or there will be hard times in store for this country.

PACIFIC COAST.

Oregon and Washington Lumber Shipped to Liverpool.

DEATH OF ARIZONA'S SURVEYOR-GENERAL.

Interesting News Notes from British Columbia—Examination of Young Finlayson at Albany—San Francisco News.

Portland First—San Francisco Afterward.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—[Special.]—Since the completion of the Northern Pacific it has been noted in commercial circles that travelers for eastern houses have been about town in large numbers. Their presence here is explained by merchants to be the result of the endeavors of eastern houses to secure a footing along the line of the Northern road, extending to Portland. From there a flying trip is made here, to test the market. This is particularly noticeable among agents of clothing houses. As a rule retailers purchased their goods from wholesalers here, but have recently been liberal in their orders from the east, chiefly obtained through travelers. Samples are sent out with a circular, stating that the agent, on the completion of his trip to the northwest will call upon local firms. The venture appears to be successful.

He is Probably "Black Bart."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 14.—A man who is known as C. E. Bolton, who is supposed to be "Black Bart," the famous poetical highwayman, was arrested here last Monday night by J. B. Hume, a special detective of Wells, Fargo & Co. The matter has been kept a secret, as some doubt existed as to whether he was really the famous highwayman or not. It seems that the man arrested has been in the habit of spending his winters during the last six years in this city, leading a life of luxury and ease, and known as Mr. Bolton. He was arrested at No. 37 Second street, where he has been in the habit of staying. He took everything in the coolest manner, saying it was a case of mistaken identity. He has been taken to Stockton, where it is believed he can be identified by an old hunter who resides there.

Oregon Lumber Shipped to Liverpool.

[Special.]—Negotiations were opened to-day for the shipment of a large quantity of Oregon pine and California redwood to Liverpool. Shipments made some months ago appear to have created a demand for certain kinds of lumber, of which the above are most desired. Recently northern lumber was sent east by clipper, and two ships now in berth for New York are taking Washington territory and California lumber, including a large amount of shingles. It is believed that the next two years will witness a live trade with Europe.

Suit Against a Capitalist.

Witcher Jones, a tobacco dealer, has brought suit against Joseph Brandenstein, capitalist and tobacco dealer, to recover $94,500. Complaint alleges that Brandenstein induced Jones to form a copartnership with him in the tobacco business; that Jones put in $24,500, and bought machinery to set the thing going; and that Brandenstein then entered into a combination with other parties to break the business up and succeeded in so doing.

Twenty-nine cases, comprising Judge Swan's collection of curiosities from Queen Charlotte islands, were shipped on the Mexico yesterday under consignment to the Smithsonian institute at Washington. The collection is the most valuable that ever left this coast. Many of the articles possess great antiquity. Four cases of magnificent black cod, of the variety discovered by Judge Swan, were sent previously, and have ere this tickled the palates of Washington epicures.

The Democratic Ox Gored this Time.

Chicago Journal.

After the nominations were made in New York it was ascertained that Maynard, the democratic candidate for secretary of state in New York, was a prohibitionist, a very unusual thing for a member of the Bourbon party, and as Carr, the republican candidate for the same office, was not quite up to high-water mark, or cold-water mark, the prohibitionists issued a manifesto, advising all their friends to vote for Maynard. This aroused the liquor interest, and the Brewers and Maltsters, a very numerous organization in New York, called a meeting and sent out circulars, advising their friends to scratch Maynard and vote for Carr. The result is that Maynard is badly beaten by Carr through the indiscretion of his prohibition friends, and for once prohibition in politics has benefited the right side. There is some satisfaction in the result thus attained in New York, because it was mainly due to the prohibition agitation that the recent election in Ohio was lost to the republicans. The same influence has shown the democrats in New York that it is dangerous to play with edge tools, and that the temperance issue is a dangerous question for them as well as for the republicans.

Lord Derby's Wealth.

London Truth.

The father of the late duke of Portland used to say that he was the wealthiest living Englishman, for, though his revenue might not be so large as that of some others, no one had more available cash. Lord Derby is in a similar agreeable position. His income from land alone is £167,000 per annum, and he may be credited with at least as much more as will make £300,000 per annum. For his Irish estate, which he wisely sold, he received £160,000. Then he has £3000 a year officially. His wife has a large jointure from the Salisbury estates, and he is childless. Then he has but one place to keep up, Knowsley, for his little villa in Kent can hardly be counted a place, and Knowsley is neither an Eaton nor a Chatsworth. The park is vast, but as cattle are admitted at so much a head for pasturage, it is not particularly valuable, and the gardens are ordinary. He might live with exceptional splendor and still put down £100,000 a year. But the Liverpudlians say he gives away nothing but advice. His father was fond of horses, his grandfather kept an expensive menagerie, and his great-grandfather was a mighty hunter and cock-fighter; but his only hobby is tree planting and pruning, by which money is earned, not lost.

Woman Suffrage in Utah.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Utah commissioners in their report emphatically declare that woman suffrage in Utah is a tremendous obstacle in the way of destroying polygamy. Woman suffragists should note this important fact. The Utah women, or the Mormon women, invariably vote according to the dictation of their husbands or church officers, and in so doing constitute some of the most powerful machinery of polygamy. How is it about female suffrage purging the land of corruption?

An Observation by a Learned Jurist.

From John Swinton's Paper.

Lord Coleridge made one remark some days ago in the hearing of Mr. Evarts, which has not yet got out. "I have observed" said he, "that if a man is nominated for the bench here he is spoken of as Judge So-and-So, and if he is defeated he is spoken of as ex-Judge So-and-So."

An Enthusiastic Endorsement.

GORHAM, N. H., July 14, 1879.

GENTS—Whoever you are, I don't know; but I thank the Lord and feel grateful to you to know that in this world of adulterated medicines there is one compound that proves and does all it advertises to do, and more. Four years ago I had a slight shock of palsy, which unnerved me to such an extent that the least excitement would make me shake like ague. Last May I was induced to try Hop Bitters. I used one bottle, but did not see any change; another did so change my nerves that they are now as steady as they ever were. It used to take both hands to write, but now my good right hand writes this. Now, if you continue to manufacture as honest and good an article as you do, you will accumulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellow-men that was ever conferred on mankind. LAWLESSNESS IN GRANT COUNTY.

The Murder of an Unoffending Indian Creates Fears of Serious Trouble—Criminal Notes.

From the last number of the Grant County News, just to hand, the following items are taken:

On Sunday last two Indians arrived in town from the Big Basin, bringing the startling intelligence of the discovery of the body of an Indian who had recently been murdered in that section of our county. The Indian had been shot in the back of the neck, causing instant death. Coroner Horsley, with a jury, went out and held an inquest over the body of the unfortunate Indian, and the jury returned a verdict that deceased had come to his death by a gunshot wound inflicted by some party to them unknown. Thus ends the first chapter of another tragedy. Surely murderous assaults and cowardly assassinations prevail to an alarming degree in this county, and something out of the usual order of things must be done in order to subdue this law-defying element.

SURROUNDED BY HOSTILE INDIANS.

We received a letter from E. C. Officer, on Tuesday last, stating that he and his two sons were in the big cavern near the Big Basin, and were surrounded by thirty-eight Indians, who suspected his boys of being the murderers of the Indian, and who were apparently bent on hostile demonstrations. Mr. Officer finished the letter with an earnest appeal for assistance; but as Coroner Horsley, with a jury, had already started for the scene of trouble no further assistance was thought necessary. Since writing the above, a letter was received by Mr. Jas. Cummings, and signed by E. C. Officer, Mr. Parris and Captain Lewis, stating that the Indians were still hanging around Mr. Officer's place in a threatening manner, and they urgently requested assistance. Sheriff Cresap will probably leave to-day (Thursday) for the scene of trouble, and will use his influence to allay the excitement.

SERIOUS TROUBLE ANTICIPATED.

Dr. F. C. Horsley, who was the first person to visit the scene of the Indian murder at Big Basin, found the Indians in a very excitable mood. He informed us that the murdered Indian was in the act of hanging up a tree the carcass of a deer, when he was shot from behind by a cowardly assassin, the ball entering the back of the neck and coming out near the left cheek bone, killing him instantly. The doctor anticipates that the settlers of that neighborhood will, in the near future, have trouble with the Indians on account of this unfortunate affair.

ANOTHER SHOOTING AFFRAY.

A personal encounter, in which a man by the name of Miller was wounded through the right shoulder, took place about two weeks ago on the road between Diamond ranch and Happy valley in this county, a man by the name of Smith inflicting the wound. It appears that it is the result of an old feud concerning some land matters. Smith claims that Miller was the aggressor, while Miller claims that Smith made the first assault. Smith came to town and procured a warrant for the arrest of Miller. Deputy Dart went out to make the arrest, but finding Miller badly wounded he placed him under the charge of a responsible person, and the hearing will take place in this city as soon as Miller's wound will safely permit of his removal here.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.

On Monday night some would-be burglar attempted to effect an entrance to the Postoffice store. The noise awakened the postmaster, Mr. Edwin Hall, who immediately arose and went into the store apartment, but could see no one on the sidewalk. He then went back to his bedroom, and shortly afterward heard the party try all the fastenings of the back door and windows. The burglar apparently got timid and left, as Mr. Hall could see no one when he went out to investigate. The same night a party was heard prowling around Messrs. Overholt & Muldrick's store; and from the sound made by the walking, it was inferred that the party must have taken the precaution to deaden the sound of their footsteps by covering their boots with socks.

BIG FIRE AT PRINEVILLE.

News Extra, Nov. 11.

The alarm was sounded at 4 A. M. yesterday (Saturday). Fire had caught by some unknown means in the kitchen of the Occidental hotel and was not discovered until it had broken into an uncontrollable flame. Everything being as dry as tinder, the fire spread with wonderful rapidity through the rooms until the entire building was enwrapped in flame. No sooner had the hotel become enveloped in flame than the millinery store of Mrs. H. A. Halbert caught and yielded to his fiery highness. This, in turn, was followed by the destruction of a small dwelling house, belonging to Wm. Circles and occupied by Mrs. Perry and her three children. The fiend had now reached the Prineville News building, and in a little less time than it takes to record it, this $1500 structure was not worth the paper on which this is written. It next began and as quickly consumed the store building occupied by Selling & Winckler and belonging to Alex. Hodges.

It seemed that this block was doomed, as it very narrowly escaped a similar fate about eighteen months ago and the surroundings are such that the insurance companies would not insure a dollar and as fast as policies expired they would not be renewed. Mr. Hodge's insurance would have expired in a few days, and then the whole block would have been a total loss.

The losses are about as follows: Wm. Circles, Occidental hotel, $6000; R. R. Kelly, hotel furniture, provisions and saloon fixtures and stock, $1400; H. A. Dillard, News building, $1500; Mrs. M. A. Halbert, $400; News office, $300, nearly all material except the press being saved; A. Hodges, store building $1500, insured for $1000. The stock of Selling & Winckler was damaged considerably. They have $5000 insurance, which will probably cover their loss.

Thackeray's Days of Poverty.

From John Payne Collier's Diary.

Thackeray at that time was chiefly known as the writer of the "Yellowplush Papers" in Fraser's Magazine. He wished me to introduce him to the Morning Chronicle, but I did not think his application there was successful. I, however, one day met him near Somerset house, walking along at a prodigious pace, when he stopped me and said: "Collier, I know you will be very glad to hear that I have this moment come from concluding an engagement with a publisher, who will give me £200 (I am not sure that it was not £300) a year if I fill out eight pages of his monthly publication." I, of course, congratulated him, for I knew that it was just then of great importance to him, as he lived in rather an expensive house in Great Coram street and kept a man servant. I dined with him there, in company with John Mitchell Kemble and his first wife, the daughter of a German professor, but who had the prettiest nails I ever saw anybody sit down to table with. There were three or four other diners, but it was one of the dullest parties of the sort I ever remember. I subsequently asked Thackeray how, considering his circumstances, he could afford to keep a livery servant (who, by the way, wore very old-fashioned cut clothes, with broad worsted lace down the fronts and round the pockets), and he told me that the old man (at least sixty) had been sort of heirloom from his father, and that, rather than not serve the son, he was content with his keep and almost no wages. Thackeray supported him while the old fellow lived.

The Pew from the Pulpit.

By Rev. Burdette.

The sleeper. He will be there. Peradventure he leaneth his chin upon a cane, so that, when the moment of deep and profound slumber cometh upon him, his chin slippeth off and with the bang of his head upon the pew in front of him he is awakened. Or, the slumberer may sit bolt upright and nod in time to his deep and regular breathing. Only when you cast your eyes upon him, the watchful wife of his bosom stabs him with her elbow, and he glareth on the congregation as one who should say "He that sayeth I slept, the same is a liar and a villain and a horse thief." Or, if he be so that he leaneth his head back until the lid thereof falleth down between his shoulders, and he playeth phantastic tunes with his nose, insomuch that the boys in the gallery make merry over the scene, then it is hazardous to awaken this slumberer suddenly, because he dreameth of divers things and smiteth the tithing man who shaketh him up, "Hey? Hi! ha! yes, yes, all right! I'm up." And thus is the congregation much scandalized. But if he claspeth his handkerchief over the back of the pew in front, and boweth his head devoutly upon the same, even in that moment when the text is pronounced, then will that sleeper trouble no one, but will slumber sweetly on until the time of the benediction; and he will awaken refreshed and smiling, and he will extol the sermon and magnify the preacher. He is the old timer from Sleepy Hollow.

The Speakership.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Ex-Speaker Keifer does not think that Mr. Randall's election as speaker is assured. He says: "Carlisle could beat him if the active opposition to Randall would hold together. Randall has not the majority of votes now. The majority is in opposition to him. But probably some one like Morrison or some other opponent of Randall will create such a feeling that it will be impossible for the adherents of Cox, Carlisle and the scattering candidates to unite, and Randall will win." As to the issues which the democrats will be likely to bring up, Mr. Keifer says: "The democrats, by electing Randall will not be able to prevent the discussion of the tariff question. Randall cannot control his party in this respect. Frank Hurd told me that the tariff question was to be reopened. He could pledge himself for that, and Frank Hurd is not a man to be repressed by any speaker."

Ben's "Highest Authority."

Boston Herald.

General Butler was once engaged as counsel for the defendant in a case where the prisoner was accused of manslaughter, and in the course of the argument, based on the assumption of self defense, he informed the jury that "we have it on the highest authority that all that a man hath he will give for his life." Judge Hoar, counsel on the other side, rose and demolished his opponent's argument by quickly saying that he had "long wondered what General Butler considered the highest authority, and was very glad to have the question settled," and proceeded to read to the court from the book of Job, "And Satan answered the Lord and said, All that a man hath he will give for his life."

Had an Easy Digestion.

Chicago Tribune.

"I remember," says a correspondent, "once breakfasting with M. Thiers. There were six prefects at the table. Cod was served. M. Thiers took a large plateful. He then took the oil cruet and poured nearly the whole of the contents over the cod. I was alarmed at seeing an old man preparing to eat such a dish, and could not refrain from asking whether he was not afraid of doing himself some harm. 'No, no,' he replied, 'I want to show these gentlemen that I am capable of governing, because I have an easy digestion.'"

Shelved in Dust an Inch Thick.

One of the tickling incidents of latter-day politics is the fact that Keifer has also lately, fervently, and, let us hope permanently subsided.

WASHINGTON LEGISLATURE.

COUNCIL.

OLYMPIA, Nov. 13.

Precisely at 1 o'clock this afternoon the council was called to order, and some of the members being absent, it was thought advisable to adjourn.

HOUSE.

As soon as a quorum appeared the house was called to order by the chief clerk, and Kuhn being called to the chair the minutes were read and the following business transacted:

H. B. 77, to authorize the territorial auditor to draw warrants for the compensation of the employes of the present legislature. The boys and girls being in want of ready cash, under suspension of rules the bill was passed.

Kuhn introduced H. B. 78, fixing the time of holding court at Port Townsend, to commence from Nov. 5. As a case of necessity, the bill was passed.

H. B. 79, by Brooks, amends sections 2880 and 2881 of the code, relative to the duty of county commissioners regarding assessment of taxes. Referred to judiciary.

H. B. 80, by Mr. Martin, to enable King county to purchase, construct and improve Washington canal; and make the same a public highway. This canal will connect lakes Union and Washington, near Seattle, and up to the present time about $25,000 has been expended on its construction. The bill was referred to committee on counties, with instructions to print.

Mr. Copley introduced H. B. 81, relative to filling vacancies in the board of county commissioners. Referred to committee on Indian affairs.

Mr. Stitzel introduced H. B. 82 and 83, fixing the compensation of county auditor and treasurer of Stevens county. Both bills passed.

The same gentleman also introduced a bill to temporarily locate the county seat of Stevens county at the new town of Colville. Referred to committee on counties.

Mr. Landrum introduced house memorial 14, asking for congressional legislation in the interest of the Yakima Indians. Referred to Indian affairs.

The house then adjourned.

A GOOD COMPARISON.

The Rev. William Roulatt, a well-known Methodist clergyman, residing at Naples, draws the following amusing, but apt comparison between Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., and a ferret.

"A ferret when placed at the entrance of a rat hole, enters the aperture, travels along the passage, seizes upon the rat, exterminates his existence and draws the animal's defunct carcass to the light. And in like manner have I found Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge to operate upon worms, those dreadful and dangerous tormentors of children. This remedy, like the ferret, enters the aperture of the mouth, travels down the gullet, hunts round the stomach and lays hold of the worms, shakes the life out of the reptiles, sweeps clean their den, and carries their carcasses clear out of the system. This, at least, has been the effect of the Vermifuge upon my children."

CHINESE CHEAP LABOR.

The American Missionary Association at its recent annual meeting in Brooklyn, passed a resolution "that we put on record our total disapproval, as an association, of the exclusive and prohibitory legislation of our government relative to the Chinese" This association is doing a good work in furnishing religious instruction to the colored population in the southern states and to our Indian tribes and its missionary work is all it can wisely undertake. Being largely composed of ministers, it is inclined to think that the United States government is also a missionary society or at least, that it ought to be. This is where the association makes a great mistake Our government is not a religious propaganda. It is only by a stretch of language that it can be called a Christian government. Neither is it unchristian. The only thing it legitimately has to do with churches and missionary institutions is to let them alone, except in so far as the churches and missionary institutions make it a part of their peculiar work, to realise the fondest wish of Dr Chalmers in behalf of the general peasantry, which was "they might be admitted to a larger share in this world's comforts than usually falls to their lot" The government and the missionary societies may properly co-operate in efforts for the material improvement of its citizens and wards, as it does with this association in attempts to civilise the Indians by teaching them, and accustoming them to habits of industry. But the government cannot go abroad to civilise other people, and it is not its province to bring people here for the purpose of civilising them. It was instituted for the protection and happiness of its own citizens. Its right to discriminate in the admission of emigrants from other nations is well understood The Chinese question, so far as the government has to do with it, is simply a question of expediency, not a religious or biblical question. If it is expedient to regulate or exclude, by treaty stipulations, the admission of Chinese laborers there is nothing unchristian nor immoral in so doing, and the question ought not to be confused by the irrelevant application of scriptural texts to it.

H. W. S.

Since the abolition of slavery it has been almost unanimously acknowledged by the southern people that it was a curse to them and their soil. It is a curse to any country to have its labor performed by a menial class, separated by social or political disabilities from the governing class. It is contrary to the spirit and purpose of our government that there should be such a distinct class here. The peculiar advantage which our system possesses over all others is that manual labor is here performed by people of whom our presidents are born And it is best for us that it should continue to be performed by that sort of people. The advocates of unrestricted Chinese immigration base their plea upon a palpable fallacy They say "if our boasted civilization cannot compete with Chinese barbarism it ought to go to the wall, that it is not worth perpetuating' It cannot compete except on their plane, and there it ceases to be civilization. If the Rev Dr Bartlett, who, it is said, made a speech at the meeting of the association against restricting Chinese immigration, which was 'so brilliant and witty" as to be "unreportable,' desires to have the laborers, who make the cigars which he smokes on a junketing tour across the continent, all live as the Chinese cigar makers live there is no use in continuing the discussion with him. It would be as fruitless and inconclusive as the discussions which dogs carry on with each other on opposite sides of a fence We should never get at each other There are a few people in this country probably—Russell Sage, a New York millionaire says that he is one—who would be glad to have labor cheapened to the lowest Chinese point Mr Sage has been reported as saying that he should be glad if laborers were compelled to work for one cent a day. A rural philosopher, who heard some of the evidence before the senate committee setting forth the extravagance of the wage laborer, remarked' Why not go back to leather breeches, mush and milk, and hard cider? When I was a young chap I had one pair of breeches that lasted for ten years, Now my boy has to have three or four pairs of trousers a year at least. Leather breeches, I say! Hard cider costs but little, New England rum and molasses made a cheap drink. But it's clothes, not whisky, that beats the prudent."

Unless the clergymen and other members of the American Missionary Association are prepared to endorse the view of the selfish millionaire, as well as that of the rural philosopher, it would not criticise with "unreportable wit" the wise policy of our government, and pass resolutions in favor of admitting hordes of Tartars to this country. It is impossible indeed, to go back to leather breeches if this association continues its laudable efforts to teach laborers to read. The capacity to read would be the hardest burden the laborer, who must work for wages established by unrestricted Chinese competition, would have to bear If American laborers must work as cheaply as the Chinese could be procured to do, they should never be allowed to learn their A B C's If they are permitted to eat of the fruit of the tree of knowledge, they will be in agony to eat also of the tree of life If that is denied them their misery must be great

The fallacy to which we have referred seems to have its origin in an application of the law of "the survival of the fittest" to our civilization. That law applies only to pagan nations, where people live as wild beasts upon each other, not for each other, Among civilized people "the fittest to survive are not those who can survive upon one cent a day and make a pair of breeches last ten years On its own plane barbarism is superior to civilization Civilization has its demands and leather breeches, and life in Chinese tenement houses and shops and holes in the ground are not among them. The wants of labor have grown enormously in this country since the days of leather breeches. The habits of civilization become its necessities In this country they already exceed the means for satisfying them The careful superintendent of the Massachusetts bureau of labor statistics says that the cost of living has increased within forty years over forty per cent, while the rate of wages has increased twenty eight per cent. Here is a difference of twelve per cent, now, a difference which cannot be much widened without crossing the line between civilization and the barbarous state. We cannot have cheap labor, cheap in the Chinese sense, without minimizing every thing else, religion included

Whoever has reported to the postal department at Washington that the bad condition of the mail service on the Northern Pacific is "brought about by a combination of postal clerks who purposely neglect their work in order to compel doubling the force which is already sufficient to distribute the mails properly," has very seriously misrepresented the situation. It is a physical impossibility for the clerks to do the work between this city and Helena Every man who has tried it has failed, and in the effort to do it several of them have broken down Two of them Jones and Vedder, unable to do what was expected of them, resigned and two men sent out from the eastern division for temporary work in their places, declined to try it and returned to Helena. Mr. Jamison, who is coming out 'with full power to do anything necessary to regulate mails over the route' will we believe, find that somebody has been lying to the department. Postmaster Steel received official notification yesterday of Jamison's appointment, with full power to act and assurance was added that "the postmaster general is determined that the service shall be made efficient."

AN UNGOVERNABLE TEMPER.

'The boy had an ungovernable temper.' This was the explanation of the Finlayson murder given by a man who had known the boy since childhood With such a temper the commission of crime, insanity or sudden death were only questions of time. The revised code of New York makes the attempt to commit suicide a penal offense An ungoverned temper ought to be treated also as a penal offense Or rather the training of the home and the teaching of the school and church ought to impress upon the intelligence of the young the fact that an ungovernable temper is a sin and a standing menace to society which ought to be both for the safety and happiness of its possessor and the protection of the community at once reformed It is the cause of a large proportion of the homicides as well as the lesser brutalities It is a source of misery to the person himself As we said a few days ago it is one of the recognized causes of insanity It is also a recognized cause of sudden death The London Lancet says that cases in which death results from a physical excitement consequent on mental passion are not uncommon A recent instance has again called attention to the matter Unfortunately those persons who are prone to sudden and overwhelming outbursts of ill temper do not, as a rule recognize their propensity or realize the perils to which it exposes them while the stupid idea that such deaths as occur in passion and which are directly caused by it, ought to be ascribed to the 'visitation of God tends to divert the attention from the common sense lesson which such deaths should teach It is most unwise to allow the mind to excite the brain and body to such an extent as to endanger life itself We do not sufficiently appreciate the need and value of mental discipline as a corrective of bad habits and a preventive of disturbances by which happiness, and life itself are too often jeopardized"

There was never a wiser or truer declaration made than that 'he who ruleth his own spirit is better than he that taketh a city' Self control is all there is of virtue. It is a mastery of one's self the enthronement of the will over the passions. The parents exercise control over their children This control should not be exasperating but it should be so exercised as to assist the child to control himself Then when the child grows up to be a man he should continue the restraining and directing control of the wise and kind parent Every man should be a father unto himself taking care of himself, as the father took care of the child, checking the passions subduing the temper and strengthening the will Then the man will be a safe citizen. He will not abuse his wife nor be cruel to his children nor murder his grand mother But if he is not a father to himself, if he does not govern his temper he may do either one of these things and comes to a rope's end

A SENSIBLE COLORED MAN.

It would be funny—if it were not disgusting in its shallowness and insincerity—to watch the effort by certain democratic newspapers and stump speakers to make the colored people believe that the republican party has gone back on them on account of the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States upon the civil rights act Anything to win say the Bourbons, and so if the ignorant negro can be imposed upon all the better Fortunately there are some leaders of the race who are thoughtful and well educated These give sensible and strong advice One a member of the Philadelphia bar, has written a letter to the Press supporting the action of the supreme court, and argues that the decision is not only just as a legal proposition but that it can be defended on the ground that the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to the constitution have already placed the colored man on an equality under the laws with all other classes of citizens. He reminds his colored fellow-citizens that "it is not within the jurisdiction of a state or of the supreme court to annul those articles of the national constitution.' That the civil rights act was held to be unconstitutional he contends is complimentary to the colored man, because that act virtually declared the colored man to be inferior to the white man He adds that 'the colored should not ask nor expect more statutory law than is available for the protection of every other class of citizens

We believe these sensible views in regard to the late decision of the supreme court will meet the approbation of the sober second thought of intelligent colored men everywhere who will presently discover that as a class they have been a good deal more frightened than hurt. The legal status of the colored man has been fixed and made secure by the two amendments to the constitution, which no court nor state can abrogate, and the barriers which he finds in the way of his progress toward social equality rest upon prejudice, and not upon any legal disability.

Mr William Walter Phelps of New Jersey, who was the only republican representative who had the moral courage to vote against the civil rights bill, said in a speech before the late election

> I was the only republican representative in congress who had the courage to vote and speak against the civil rights bill which the highest tribunal of the land has adjudged unconstitutional It was on the 5th of February 1875, that our party under the baleful lead of General Butler was reluctantly forced to a vote In a house more crowded than I have ever seen it, in a silence most oppressive and solemn, I rose in my seat, and knowing the full odium of the patriotic task I was about to perform, warned the house and the country of the impolicy and unconstitutionality of the act they were about to pass In my protests against the greenback, the franking privilege and the bayonet inquisition my colleagues on the republican side had been wont to leave their seats and gather around me to encourage by voice and presence a member who was new to the house and doubtful of his welcome This time not a republican left his seat, not a republican voice or hand gave encouragement—no a republican friend dared to congratulate me as I closed my speech It has taken eight years to win my vindication and it seems to me it is complete

This is a just and proud boast for any man to make. Moral courage, of the rare sort shown by Mr Phelps in the house and by Matt. H Carpenter in the senate in opposing Mr Sumner's passionately advocated chimera of legislating into being the social equality of the races deserves recognition. Mr Phelps has had his in a re election to the present congress

The Memphis Avalanche insists that the best candidate for the democracy next year is General Hancock. Its argument is that the democratic nominee must look for his election to the northern democratic vote and that candidate who is strongest in the northern states should therefore be nominated The Avalanche compares the figures of 1880 and 1876 and finds that in New York Pennsylvania Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, to say nothing of the other northern states Hancock in 1880 received more votes than did either Hayes or Tilden in 1876 The Avalanche claims that Hancock's total vote was 157,258 larger than Tilden's vote

If the mail cars with which the Northern Pacific railroad is equipped are sufficiently large why is mail carried from St Paul through to Portland in the baggage cars?

'FARMER'S' CRITICISM

'Farmer,' whose letter we print this morning in saying much that is reasonable and true says a good deal, and infers more that is unreasonable and mistaken. His criticism with respect to the lack of a proper place of exhibit and sale, is quite correct. The city ought to provide a general market place where farmers could display their products, and where buyers could find them A place of exchange would undoubtedly be an advantage to both sellers and buyers, but if there were such a place only a small fraction of the produce consumed in the city would be bought by the consumer direct from the producer Only the careful few who look personally for bargains would take the pains to attend such an uncertain market, and the greater number would as now buy from regular dealers Then as now the chief buyers from the producers would be retail dealers and in so small a city as Portland there certainly can be no great difficulty in finding this class of customers. The truth is that retailers buy from San Francisco because San Francisco has produce to sell They would prefer to buy at home, but our farmers have not produce to sell, or if they have they allow it to rot in the ground where it grew" as our correspondent says. And if this is the fact there is gross shiftlessness There is never a time in Portland when fresh eggs fresh dairy products good vegetables and good fruit can not find ready sale at the retail stores which supply consumers, and if a farmer has these things to sell and yet allows them to rot "shiftless is too mild a designation As to a tax having been put upon truck farmers selling from house to house it is true that a foolish council did levy such a tax a few years ago, but at once it was shown to be illegal and it was never collected Farmers never felt it as a hindrance to their business in Portland Consumers in all cities are furnished by regular dealers with produce as with sugar and coffee and no more depend upon chance wagons for the one supply than upon chance peddlers for the other The natural customer of the producer is the grocer and a farmer of ordinary comprehension ought to be able to find the grocery stores in this city without much trouble

ARRIVAL OF THE CARP.

Those Desiring the Fish Can Get Fifty by Simply Paying Twenty-Five Cents for a Bucket

The car of the United States fish commission, which left Washington on November 5 with 25,000 young carp, arrived here over the Northern Pacific yesterday morning and was at once transferred across the river and is now at the west side depot Five thousand of the fish were left with the Ohio fish commission, and the same number with the commissions of Iowa and Minnesota The remainder are for distribution in Oregon and Washington territory The car is in charge of Mr George H H Moore with James Carswell assistant and George Demonet and Arthur Feaman apprentices in the employ of the United States fish commission Mr Carswell was here some time since with a car of carp The car is fitted specially for the transportation of fish In one end is an office for the person in charge at the other end a kitchen and along the sides a series of lockers in which the fish in tin buckets each containing about fifty carp and half a gallon of water are placed Pipes convey air through an ice box at each side of the car to the lockers in which the fish are placed so as to keep the air at a proper temperature which with carp is 45 degrees These carp are four months old and of an average length of two inches They are in good condition only 344 (less than 1 per cent) having died on the way and this was caused by sudden climatic changes it being very cold in crossing the Rockies Any person desiring to obtain a bucket containing fifty carp the only charge being twenty five cents for the bucket The fish have been sent out here by Prof Baird at the solicitation of Hon M C George They were hatched at Washington in the Potomac from original German stock In the Atlantic States the allowance to each applicant is only twenty fish but on account of the great distance from the source of supply it was deemed no more than just that applicants on this coast should have fifty each The car will remain here until Friday evening when it will go to Walla Walla

Mr Moore suggests that until the carp are placed permanently in ponds the water in which they are kept should be changed daily They will live in confined places in Potomac river water about two weeks and were brought here without change of water Yesterday they were put in Willamette river water If in ponds not ... the carp will grow in one year to weigh from two to five pounds In native waters they often obtain a weight of fifty pounds and over Average weight in southern states at one year is four pounds The carp thrives best on vegetable matter—lettuce cabbage boiled potatoes, water cress celery tops etc—and is fond of cornmeal

Several gentlemen interested in fish culture called yesterday on Mr Moore to inquire about the introduction of shad He thought if the proper request came to Prof Baird that gentleman would consent to send out a supply A request in that direction from the board of trade might bring about the desired result

BRIEF MENTION.

The Vancouver Transportation company have reduced the price of towing

The stock of C J Myers & Co bankrupts East Portland has been purchased by J Selling & Co

Harry J M Cormick will return to Portland next month to accept a position with Abell the photographer He will have charge of the office and reception room

A subscriber wants to know why the cars on the Washington and First street roads do not run later Do not their charters authorize the running of cars after half past nine?

The ladies of the First Congregational church have been busy some time preparing for a bazar to be held the first week in December A great variety of useful and beautiful articles have been made suitable for Christmas presents

Two Chinamen were arrested last evening charged with assaulting and robbing another of a considerable sum of money There was some excitement in Chinatown over the affair as a number of silk shirted, sleek looking tyees came to the front and gave bonds for the prisoners in the sum of $2500

W C T U MEETING

[COMMUNICATED]

The meeting of the W C T U for Wednesday Nov 14th was one of unusual interest A large number of the best Christian element of the city was present and great interest was taken in all the proceedings

Arrangements were perfected for a fair to be held on the 12th and 13th of December The committee were enthusiastic over all their plans and hopeful of large results the proceeds of the fair to aid in establishing a headquarters or place for our work where we can be more effective in rescuing the perishing and raising the fallen of both sexes Some of our ladies have been meeting with gratifying success in soliciting donations to this end Among many none are more timely, or more appreciated than the magnificent one of David Cole who gave a very handsome Newport range for our culinary department The ladies were unanimous in their thanks and eulogies of Mr Cole The cause is one of the worthiest and we hope others of our large hearted business men will feel it a privilege to emulate this noble example and when the community is better acquainted with us and our aims we feel sure this will be the case MEMBER W C T U

ADVICE FROM AN OLD MINER

GOLD CITY I T Nov 4

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I would like to say a word to your readers and to miners who are coming here. Stay where you are until May Everything is high here and you could not do any thing before May The ground has proven very rich as far as opened I think it is the richest bar I have struck for years Good miners are getting $7 per day They are cutting up the claims now ... 600 feet Several shooting scrapes have occurred Provisions are very high The gold is coarse and can be picked up in the creek This will make a lasting camp as it is covered with large cedar timber The creek pays for over fifteen miles The gold is on all of the side gulches

ANSWER TO A SLANDERER

PORTLAND Nov 13

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Having seen in the News of this morning an article reflecting upon my character both civilly and officially in justice to myself as well as to my friends, I must say that whoever gave their reporter the item about my cutting and stabbing my brother and having to call in the services of a physician to attend to him and sew up his wounds, says what is not true Mr Editor I do not know (bad as such a man tries to make me) what name would be appropriate for such a being for the brain that conceived and conveyed to his paper such a deliberate lie, cannot be a man nor have the principles of one Now as far as the Court of Death is concerned I have nothing to say All I will do is to refer him to any attorney at law who has any business with me and I think he will be satisfied with the result especially the district attorney and his deputy

THE CŒUR D'ALENE MINES.

Faithful Statement of the Actual State of Affairs, the Output and the Prospects for Next Spring.

The following letter from O. A. Tibbetts, who has just visited the Cœur d'Alene mines, to his brother, J. E. Tibbetts, of this city, will be read with interest by all who want information concerning the new El Dorado:

SAND POINT, Oct. 31.

I left here September 15 for Cœur d'Alene, via Rathdrum. There is a wagon road from Rathdrum (the old Mullan road) to Miners' Camp, and from there to the mines, twenty seven miles, over a very bad trail. On our arrival we found that Pitchard creek (the discovery) had been located from the month to head, as well as all gulches putting into it. Each man had taken twenty acres of ground, and many had located for their absent friends. There was considerable excitement at the time from the fact that many Montana miners were coming in and did not show a proper regard for the supposed rights of all who had more than one claim, or for those who had not properly represented. Still there has been no serious trouble as yet. It is unfortunate that the first stampede consisted of Palouse farmers, who do not understand the first principles of mining; and again that local laws have not been enacted cutting claims down to 250 feet. I am satisfied that all this will be remedied in the spring. It is too late to accomplish anything this fall, as you well know. As I could not remain on my claim I did not jump one on Pritchard creek, but moved across the divide, about three miles, and located on Beaver creek, which at that time had not been prospected. I came out and sent two old miners in from Helena, giving them two-thirds of the twenty acres to develop it. It seems now that I have been fortunate in my location, as I heard last night Beaver creek is prospecting better than any other.

LOCATIONS MADE.

Pritchard creek is located for about twenty miles, Eagle creek for twelve miles, and Beaver creek for about fifteen miles. When I left Pritchard creek was the only one that had been prospected any, and that not thoroughly. They were sluicing in four different claims, all averaging over an ounce per day to the man. In one claim five men in three days took out 31½ ounces, and the day I was in the claim they picked up over $30 in nuggets while cleaning the bedrock. At this time they were working over rough bedrock, and in a few days they ran onto smooth bedrock, when seven of them only cleaned up $10. This led me to think that the pay streak might be spotted, but reports since then have been more encouraging.

DESCRIPTION OF THE MINES.

There is no place where they go to bedrock on the three creeks but what they find very flattering prospects. The gold is very coarse, none of it running less than 50 cents, and I saw one piece which went $38 40. They found a piece recently which weighs a trifle over $168, and a large number of nuggets have been found ranging from $6 to $20. The bedrock is of slate, and while it can not be called porous, it is soft and very irregular and shows a layer of cement in the seams and throughout on top.

The entire country indicates a heavy wash, but so far all the gold has been found on the bedrock, and even to a depth of three and four feet into it. I will, however, except Beaver creek, where a fair prospect is found through the gravel, but of finer gold.

When I left the camp there were about 500 or 600 men on the creeks, and I met 80 on their way in. The camp has been visited by something over 1500 men, but probably not more than 200 or 300 will winter there. As soon as the spring opens there will be the greatest rush ever known on this north Pacific coast. I will not be surprised to see 15,000 men on the ground by July 1st. The excitement amongst old miners is intense, and they are sending for friends far and near, and even should the pay not extend over all the ground the rush will be just as great, for it will not be thoroughly prospected this season. This will undoubtedly be the means of causing the whole country to be thoroughly prospected, both for placer and quartz.

They have located three galena veins running northeast from Beaver creek, the best of which goes $25 gold, 30 ounces silver and 47 per cent. lead; and due east from there they are sinking on a ledge that shows a sampling as high as $900 gold, but still I am not favorably impressed with it, as the solid mineral condensed would not show over five or six inches. Still, it may possibly widen. There is bound to be plenty of pay rock found, or all the experts are at fault. The creeks are all very flat, but Mr. Henderson, an expert and mining engineer sent from California, has decided that they can be worked with hydraulics.

As to business. When I left there was four small stocks of goods in the camp, but as every one intending to remain any length of time, had brought in or sent out for supplies, trade was dull. Flour $30 per barrel; bacon 25 cents per pound; potatoes, onions and cabbages 15 cents per pound, and other things in proportion.

GETTING READY FOR A HIGHWAY.

The mine is located about forty miles nearly due south of Heron Siding. They are trying to cut in a trail from there, but as yet without success. I tried to get in from Heron a few days ago with forty-five pounds on my back, but had to give it up and return. We found eighteen inches of snow. Some of the party got lost and were out seven days, coming in at Nixon. I caught a severe cold, and am afraid I will not be able to go in again this fall.

Dave Small has ordered a portable saw mill from the east, and has men now at work cutting a wagon road from Mud prairie, eleven miles east of the old mission, to the month of Pritchard creek, where he is going to locate his mill. He will put it in between now and December 1.

Clem King is building at Cœur d'Alene a small screw steamer to ply on the lake and Cœur d'Alene river, as far as the old mission. When this is completed, according to the figures of Dave (whom I saw last night), the distance will be twelve miles by good road to Cœur d'Alene post, forty-one miles by steamer to old mission and thirty miles by wagon road to Pritchard creek. My judgment is that a good stern-wheel steamer is what they need, on account of the bar at the month of Cœur d'Alene river, otherwise the water is good for any kind of a boat. If any of our friends desire to locate or invest in these fields, there is plenty of opportunities outside of a mining claim, but I wish them to come and see for themselves first, and then use their own judgment.

THE KOOTENAI MINES.

Now, then, in regard to Kootenai, a few words and I am through on mines. They have been fighting over some of the claims for the past six months, and reports have been so conflicting that it is almost impossible to form an opinion. The gold commissioner rendered his decision this month, giving Sprowl (our party) the entire ground in dispute against Ainsworth & Co. It has been appealed, but will do them no good. The matter will be finally settled between now and January 20. I have 1500 feet in there, which Captains Lane and Foster pronounced no good; but since that time they have uncovered a fine body of galena on my location. In the spring Bentley & Co. of Leadville take this claim and open it for two-thirds interest. The Kootenai ores are of low grade, but there are mountains of it and cheaply handled. The company interested in the mines and reclamation of lands will put a steamer on Kootenai lake and river in the spring and finish a wagon road from Sand Point which they commence this fall and winter.

SOME SOUTHERN OREGON NAMES.

ROCK POINT, Or., Nov. 5, 1883.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Strangers passing from Glendale, the present terminus of the railroad through to Redding, are inquisitive about the peculiar names of some of the streams along the Rogue river valley. For the benefit of travelers I have concluded to give the origin of some of these names: Grave creek, situated ten miles south of Glendale, got its name on account of Miss Josephine Leland being the first white person buried there. In 1850 a party of emigrants was camped near the creek. Miss Leland strolled a few hundred yards down the stream from the camp, late in the evening. She was heard to scream, and on hastening to the spot her lifeless body was found with three arrows stuck in her breast. Some treacherous Indians had done the work. Shortly afterward a Mr. Hackness and an old man named Yoogood were killed by the Indians, and they were also buried on the bank of the historic stream, since which it has been called Grave creek. Josephine county was named after Miss Leland, as also a postoffice. So much for Grave creek.

The next place which causes the stranger to look bewildered is Jump Off Jo. Away back in the 50s a party of prospectors was attacked by the savages. Among the number was Jo McLaughlin. He was mounted on a little grey Spanish horse. On account of the superior number of the Indians the prospectors were obliged to fall back. McLaughlin, a plucky fellow, with five others, was detailed to harass the Indians or cover the retreat of his comrades. Some how he was cut off from his party and was obliged to run for dear life. Accordingly, he dug the spurs in the sides of his bronco and sailed off down the mountain side, hotly pursued by the red devils. He ran into a bend in the creek where the banks were thirty feet high. His companions had made the crossing a little below and were anxious about the welfare of poor Jo, when they discovered him completely surrounded by a band of savages. Seeing that every avenue of escape was cut off, they called out, "Jump off, Jo! Jump off, Jo!" and he put spurs to his horse and sailed over the embankment. His horse fell with him with such force that it broke his thigh. Hence the name, "Jump Off Jo."

The next place we come to is Louse creek. This name is peculiarly objectionable to ladies; for when they inquire of the stage men "What's the name of this creek?" and are answered "That is louse creek," they invariably turn up their noses and look wise. The stream got its name on account of so many packers and miners camping there that its banks were alive with "greybacks."

The next place is Grant's pass. There are two versions concerning the origin of its name. One is that a good many years ago General Grant, then a lieutenant, was camped there with a party of soldiers, and they got to playing euchre for $1 on the corner. Grant was a little in his cups; the game stood three to three. He picked up his cards and had the right bower, ace and king. He concluded to pass, thinking that he could euchre his opponent, a burly miner. The result was that he lost the dollar, and the place was called "Grant's pass." The other version is that a party of road viewers found a pass through the mountains about the time the general made a successful move on the confederate forces, and the place was called Grant's pass. It is likely that this last account is correct.

Rogue river got its name on account of the roguish nature of the first inhabitants—the Indians.

Bloody Run, a gulch near Dry Diggings, is the spot where a family named Jones was surrounded and slaughtered by the Indians.

Sardine creek got its name on account of the following incident: A man named J. W. Hayes, at present carrying on a blacksmith business at this place, was out prospecting for gold in this stream. His camp equipage was packed by a jackass. One morning the animal got mad and whirled around and launched a fearful kick at Hayes, which sent him on the broad of his back in the stream. Hayes jumped up and remarked, "Oh, ho! d—d a you; I was watching you that time; I am no sardine;" since which occasion the stream has been called Sardine creek.

The signal station at Cape Hancock is fully supplied with signal flags, but has not as yet raised the flag staff. Vessels in passing are requested to display their signal numbers, or names, and they will be promptly reported. Pilots have also been requested to notify captains of ships which they board. C. D. Stewart, in charge of the station, is proving himself a capable man, and is anxious to do good service, but he has no assistant to relieve him when compelled to be away from the lookout. Vessels are often seen a dozen miles out, and their colors, or even rig, cannot be distinguished at that distance.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

Long Creek, Grant county, offers special inducements and a good trade to a first-class harness maker.

Scarlet fever is raging at Prairie City, Grant county. The public school has been closed.

The town site of Huntington, in Baker county, has been laid out, and $100 subscribed toward the building of a school house. The town is rapidly assuming metropolitan airs, as the fact that a free fight, robbery of a prostitute of $60 and a shooting scrape occurred in one day attests.

Washington Territory.

Walla Walla has an apple tree in bloom.

Spokane county is to have another newspaper. It will be issued from Farmington.

The Good Templars of Chehalis will build a lodge hall soon. The building will be two stories high, and the lower story will be rented.

The second term of the Olympia collegiate institute, under the direction of Professor Grubbe, will commence next Monday, November 19.

Every hotel in North Seattle was raided on Friday and Saturday nights by burglars. Seventy-one dollars in coin and a quantity of clothing and bedding were captured.

The concerted action of clerks employed in the large business houses of Seattle has brought about an early closing movement, some twenty-five merchants there having agreed to close their doors hereafter at 6 instead of 9 o'clock P. M. Saturday evenings and during the holidays an exception will be made to this rule, but through the week overworked clerks will have the evenings to themselves.

Walla Walla Journal: Harve Smalls and Chas. Lynch, with five horses each, rode a twenty-five mile race on Saturday. Fortune seemed to favor Smalls, Lynch getting a bad start, and in the second mile being thrown, afterward continuing the race with four horses. But notwithstanding his loss of a half-mile by these circumstances, he closed the breach toward the end and finished the twenty-fifth mile a winner by 200 yards. Time, one hour and five minutes.

The Hansford valley correspondent of the Tacoma Ledger writes as follows: Superior coal beds are found to exist in the adjacent hills, so valuable in extent and quality as to insure the incorporation of a mining company, which is now making preparation for active work. Several gentlemen of means of New Tacoma, as well as some of our local residents, have secured extensive tracts of coal lands adjacent to this company's property, and in some instances are proceeding to develop their interests here. A fine horse trail has just been completed from Hansford creek, south one and a half miles through the dense timber that covers the hills, into the property of R. J. Weisbach, Samuel Wolfe and others of New Tacoma, and renders facilities for the immediate opening of the coal on their lands. Already measures are being taken to build a railroad to connect with the Northern Pacific at or near Centerville, running east seven and a half miles up Hansford creek bottom, to the mines in question; and, when completed, it will be of the utmost benefit to this neighborhood in conveying our coal, timber and farm products to what is at present an almost inaccessible market.

British Columbia.

Last Thursday was generally observed as thanksgiving day at Victoria.

About 500 tons of coal is now the daily output at the Wellington mine. The places of the strikers are nearly all filled.

Rich copper and silver ore has been discovered on the Similkameen river. An assay gives: Twenty-three ounces of silver, value, $26 73; 45.5 per cent. of copper, value, $155 93.

Colonist: The steamer Idaho has taken aboard at Portland for Alaska an apparatus for drying and baking the bodies of fish after the oil has been pressed from them. The product is called "chum," and finds ready market all over the world as a fertilizer. Mr. Spratt is making a success in the same direction at Burrard inlet.

Colonist: Walter King, son of Jabez King, while passing the corner of Cook and Johnson streets, in company with a son of Mr. Becker, on Wednesday night, was set upon by two boys named O'Rourke and another whose name has not reached us. The assailants knocked King down and kicked him about the head and face in a most brutal manner. Becker escaped a beating by running away. King is badly hurt and the police have been informed of the assault.

WORDS FAIL. "Words fail to express my gratitude," says Mr. SELBY CARTER, of Nashville, Tenn., "for the benefits derived from Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Having been afflicted all my life with Scrofula, my system seemed saturated with it. It came out in Blotches, Ulcers, and Mattery Sores, all over my body." Mr. Carter states that he was entirely cured by the use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and since discontinuing its use, eight months ago, he has had no return of the scrofulous symptoms. All baneful infections of the blood are promptly removed by this unequalled alterative. PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists; $1, six bottles for $5.
